JOHN BARKHAM, Chairman of the Admissions Committee, announces the election to Active Membership in the Overseas Press Club of:

> DREW MIDDLETON, New York Times MARY JOHNSON TWEEDY, Time and Life

> > * MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT ************

With the approval of the Board of Governors, the Executive Committee has established new regular office hours for the OPC staff. Executive Secretary Janice Griffiths will open the office at 9:30 A.M. each day (except Saturdays and Sundays) and be at the office until 5:30 Assistant Bill Smith will be on duty from 10:30 A.M. to 6:30 P.M. daily, remaining later, at cocktail parties or, if required by Committees in session. The move was made in order to bring OPC operations into line with normal New York City business practices -- and, incidentally, to "make life more normal, hour-wise, for both the Club and staff." During summer vacations, office hours will be from 9:30 A.M. to 5:30 P.M.

In keeping with the summer vacation tradition no monthly Board meetings will be held during July and August. As provided for in the By-Laws (Article II), meetings of the Executive Committee may be called "to make decisions on urgent business which cannot await a meeting of the Board of Governors".

OPC APPEALS TO BOLIVIAN PRESIDENT ON PRESS FREEDOM The OPC has appealed to President Victor Paz Estenssoro of Bolivia to permit the newspaper, La Razon, to resume publication. La Razon, foremost newspaper in Bolivia, won the Maria Moors Cabot Award in 1947 as an outstanding example of Inter-American journalism. It was shut down by armed partisans of the revolutionary regime which took over Bolivia two months ago. Despite repeated requests, the new government has refused protection to plant and personnel which would enable the paper to resume publication.

In the letter to Pres. Paz Estenssoro, OPC President WILLIAM P. GRAY, associate editor of Life Magazine, and BRUNO SHAW, Chairman of the Club's Freedom of Press Committee, said: "It is our belief that in freedom of the press lies the freedom of the people of the western hemispheres. Indeed, this principle, we believe, is basic to the friendly and neighborly cooperation between all the governments and the peoples of the western world.

"We are advised that unreasonable demands have been made on the publishers of La Razon, who are anxious to resume publication...Here in our country the closing of a newspaper is held contrary to the concept of freedom of the press...It is the reason why this Club, whose members represent American newspapers, news services, magazines and radio in almost every country in the world, are moved to make an appeal to Your Excellency to use his good offices to enable

La Razon to resume publications

NICARAGUAN REVOLUTIONS NOW)
OLD-HAT, PRES. SOMOZA) TELLS OPC LUNCHEON GUESTS)

While it is doing so much for European defense, the United States should not be careless about its "good neighbor" policy in Iatin America, Gen. Anastasio Somoza, president of Nicaragua, warned at an OPC luncheon at Toots Shor's June 19.

The President was introduced by JERRY HANNIFIN, chairman of the OPC's Inter-American Relations Committee, with reference to the fact that he has been called "strong man" and "dictator" but also is one with problems not always understood by all North Americans.

News peg for the President's visit was the passage by Congress of a $4,000,000 appropriation for construction of "Roosevelt Road" across Nicaragua, serving the same defense purposes as the long-discussed but now-abandoned Nicaraguan Canal. Now more than half built, the road, when finished a year and one-half hence, will give a solid-land no-bridge passage from the Atlantic to the Pacific to back-stop the vulnerable Panama Canal in case of war.

Reminiscing about his relations with FDR, Somoza recalled he had been given the same kind of Washington reception as the King of England. He said he found Roosevelt so human he was encouraged to lay his cards on the table. Later he thought Spruille Braden, as State Dept. mentor over Latin America, had pushed countries too fast toward democracy, though he admitted that Nicaragua has now done practically everything Braden wanted "in our own way."

On the "dictator" charge, Somoza said Nicaraguan revolutions in the past had resulted from "putting the enemy up against the wall and doing the worst." Now, Somoza declared, he has succeeded in solving the problem of the ballot box in Nicaragua so that elections were decided at the polls and not on the field of battle. He has put his political enemies in the government instead of prison. Urging that recognition of minorities in government be made an American continental policy, he commented: "A dictator would never do that!"

The President described improved economic conditions in Nicaragua under his regime.
Revealing that the best coffee and cotton lands haven't been touched, he invited OPC members to come down as his personal guests to find out the country's possibilities.

TRUMAN SEES RIFT UNTIL CZECHS FREE BILL OATIS

President Truman, during a conference with Ellis O. Briggs, American Ambassador to Czechoslovakia, declared that relations between the United States and Czechoslovakia cannot be improved as long as that government holds William N. Oatis, AP Prague Bureau chief, in prison. The Ambassador is returning to Czechoslovakia this week. Oatis was imprisoned by the Czech government in April, 1951, on charges of espionage for carrying out what this country regards as legitimate functions of a news reporter.
